Key Takeaways: Week 9, Day 3

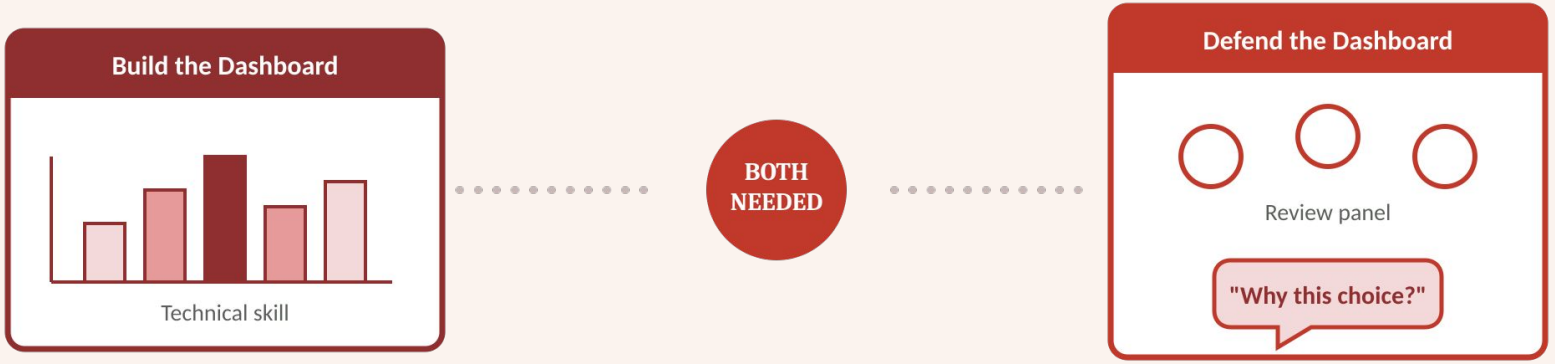

Dominic Yeakel | 10/2/2026

1 Technical Skill and Defense Skill Are Both Needed

Technical Skill and Defense Skill Are Both Needed

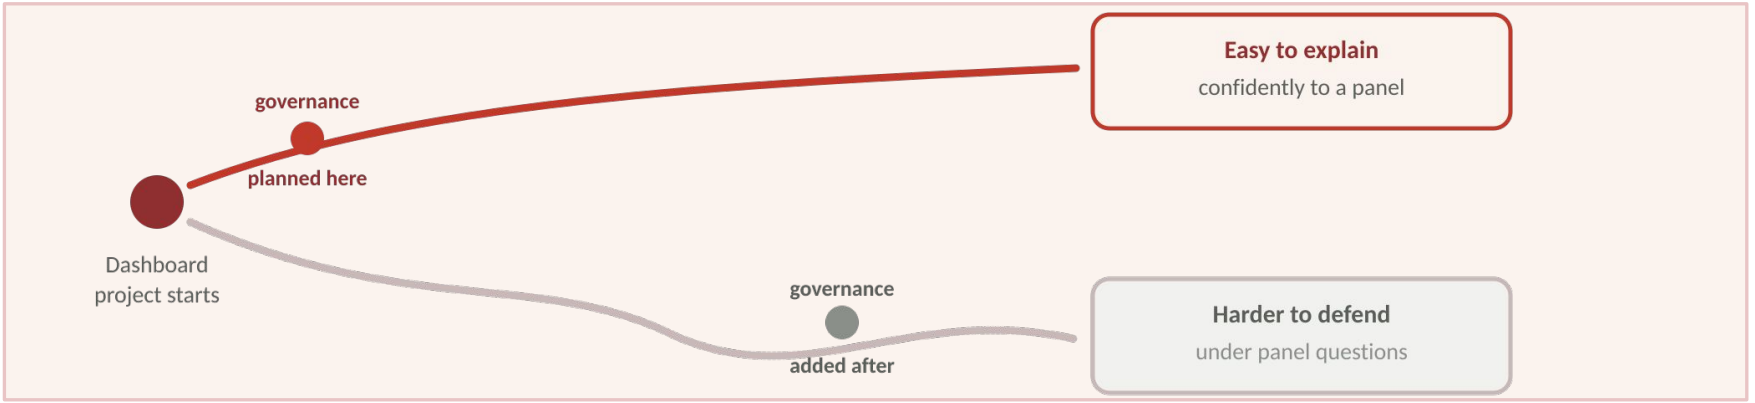

A well built dashboard and a well defended one are related but distinct achievements, and today asked you to demonstrate both. Neither replaces the other.

2 Governance Planned Early Is Easier to Defend

Governance Planned Early Is Easier to Defend

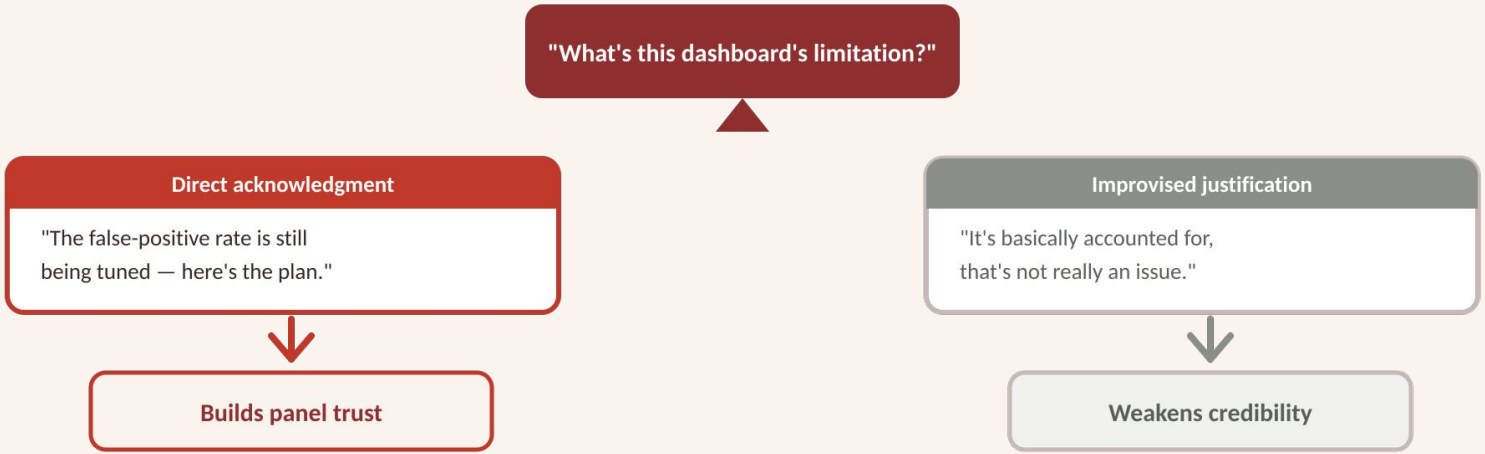

Dashboards where governance was considered from the start, not added afterward, are consistently easier to explain confidently to a panel. This lesson carries forward into any future dashboard work.

3 Honesty Strengthens Credibility

Honesty Strengthens Credibility

Acknowledging a limitation directly, as shown in today's case study, builds more trust with a panel than an improvised justification. This applies to presenting any technical work, not just today's dashboard.

CARRYING THIS FORWARD

Build it well. Defend it honestly. Plan governance before you need it.

Skill + Defense → Governance Early → Honesty